Special Train and Automobiles Bring
Large Croude From Nearby Towns and Coal Camps—Addresses Delivered
By Grand Master Roy Watson and "Parson" Simpkins of Zion.

Attendance upon the reunion and picnic of the several Odd Fellow and Rebekah lodges 1-44 at Price last Saturday was not as large as had been anticipated because of the fact that the camp at Clear Creek, Winter Quarters, Sunnyside, Black Hawk, Castle Gate and elsewhere were working that day, and many members of the order of Odd Fellows could not get away or could not afford, under conditions prevailing at this time, to lose a day or more from their work. As it was, however, sixty-five tickets were sold at $2.00 for that town and Standardville, while Helper and Castle Gate furnished enough that came down on the special train. Sunnyside's attendance was small, those from that camp coming over in automobiles. Others came from nearby places by train and otherwise.

The parade formed in front of the Odd Fellows' Hall at Price at 10:30 o'clock in the morning, headed by the Price band and marched to City Park. Following were the Price, Storrs, Sunnyside, Castle Gate and other lodges of the two orders with a number of children in the parade and the Storrs band. The streets and business houses of Price were gaily decorated with flags and bunting, and in the evening several of the streets were lighted up with many colored electric devices. During the afternoon the big crowd, which was considerably augmented by citizens of Price generally, spent a most pleasurable time at the park.

Odd Fellows, Rebekahs and citizens were addressed during the afternoon by Grand Master Roy Watson and Grand Secretary Peter A. Simpkins of Salt Lake City. Samuel H. Short of Storrs was grand marshal of the day. After the speaking all thoroughly enjoyed an open air picnic in the shade of the trees and buildings of the park. A baseball game and several athletic contests occupied the time of the crowd during the afternoon and until late in the evening, prizes for the several events being contributed by the business men of the city. Many useful and practical articles were given away. A grand ball in the evening at City Hall wound up the program. In point of attendance it was one of the most successful and largely attended of any ever given here.

At the conclusion of the dances the special train returned early Sunday morning to Storrs and Standardville by way of Helper and Castle Gate, dropping its passengers en route. Storrs has a good hand that with a little more practice will become one of the very best in the state. Every one of the visitors talked to by The Sun declared he or she had the best time imaginable. Price's hospitality was generally commented upon. There was not an accident or unpleasant feature during the entire time the visitors were here.

TAX INCOME IS CUT $35,000.00

LEVY FOR COUNTY SCHOOLS REDUCED TO EIGHTEEN MILLS.

Board of County Commissioners Take
Same View of Matters As the Denver and Rio Grande and Other Corporations of County—New School Buildings Are Now Abandoned.

J. H. Sharp and Albert Dryner held a special meeting of the board of county commissioners last Saturday, and reduced the tax levy for county school purposes from twenty-three to eighteen mills. The former sum had been agreed upon and placed of record by both the board of county commissioners and the county board of education for the year 1915. This makes a total state and county levy of 37.7 mills. The city of Price has a levy of sixteen mills to be added, while Helper, Castle Gate, Scottfield, Black Hawk and Wellington, all incorporated, will have something to add as city and town taxes. Total taxes in Price are more than 5 1/2 per cent. In Carbon county the reduction of five mills from twenty-three to eighteen in the school levy, means a falling off in revenues on an assessed valuation of about seven millions of around thirty-five thousand dollars in the total taxes to be collected.

As announced in last week's Sun, W. N. Beatty, tax agent of the Denver and Rio Grande, appeared before the board of education recently and registered objections to the levy of twenty-three mills. "After a full and free discussion" of the matter, the board came to the same conclusion as presented by Beatty. They recommended the lower rate of eighteen mills to the board of county commissioners, which resulted in Saturday's action by the commissioners. There is still a question as to the legality of some two and a half mills of the eighteen mills levy, but it is understood none of the big corporations of the county are to contest the alleged illegality.

This termination of the county school tax levy will cause material changes in the plans of the county board of education. The thirty-five thousand dollars that is cut off will make it impossible to build the new school houses planned for Storrs, Standardville, Cameron, Harper and elsewhere, although it may be possible to build at Standardville. Brick for these structures had been ordered at Price, but after being burned the orders with the Lars Frandsen brickyard are now canceled. It had been expected to use some two hundred thousand bricks.

In most of the places where it had been intended to build the trustees will be able to rent with the exception, perhaps of Standardville. Plans for the new buildings had been ordered from a Salt Lake City architect. These will be good, however, when the county has money. It is expected the tax matter and buildings proposed will be gone into more fully at the meeting of the board on September 7th, Tuesday next.

Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Sumner have moved into the upstairs of the Parker-Wester block at the corner of Main and Ninth streets. Having taken over the place last week, the house is being refurnished throughout and is second to no other in the city. They have decided to call it the Argyle. "The Argyle will enter to the trade of Americans only," says Landford Sumner. The house is steam heated and is supplied with all the modern conveniences. Everything is new.
